

KENTUCKY HIGH SCHOOL MUSICAL
FESTIVAL ENDED

Approximately Four Thousand Students Attend 11th Annual Contest at University

MEETING SPONSORED BY U. K. EXTENSION

Announcement Made That Convention Will Be Held Again in 1936

The eleventh annual State High School Musical festival, which brought more than 4,000 Kentucky high school students to the University campus, was brought to a close Saturday night with the band contest of Division one. According to an announcement from the office of Prof. Louis Clifton, acting director of the University Department of Extension, the festival will be held again next spring.

In the violin contest held Friday, Robertson Kagan, Frankfort; Joseph Marcucci, St. Xavier; Billy Shelbourne, Versailles, and Frank Yarbrough, Bowling Green Training school, were judged as superior. Halseck Hall and Henry Clay High school were judged as superior in the string quartets, also held Friday. Ashland was judged as good.

The Ashland High school band, under the direction of John Lewis Sr., won the Lexington Board of Commerce prize of $25 for the best performance in the parade held Saturday afternoon. Henry Clay High school won the second prize of $15. The parade formed on Euclid avenue near Stoll field, proceeded north on Limestone to Maxwell, west on Maxwell to Mill, north on Mill to Main, east on Main to the Union Station viaduct, and thence south to its starting point.

Judges of the contests held Saturday were: Ralph E. Rush, director of instrumental music, Cleveland Heights High school, Cleveland, Ohio; Ernest Michels, Indianapolis, of the Arthur Jordan Conservatory of Music, and Ernest S. Williams, member of the faculty of the Ernest Williams School of Music, Brooklyn, New York. Presiding officers at the sessions were: Paul Mathews, director of music of the Lexington Public schools; J. S. Mitchell, of the University Training school, and Russell Bridges, Fort Thomas.

In the band contest of Division one, Highlands High of Ft. Thomas and Louisville Male High won superior ratings. Louisville Manual and Henry Clay High were judged as excellent. In Division four, excellent awards were won by Madison County High, Mayfield, Russell County High, Louisville, and Louisville Junior High. In Division five, Louisville Western, Louisville Parkland and Bellevue were judged excellent.

Shawnee, Louisville, was given the superior rating in Division three. Frankfort and Louisville Girls' High won excellent ratings. Mayfield and Ormsby Village were judged superior in Division two and Bellevue and Harlan as excellent.

Orchestra contest results were announced as follows:
Division one—Superior, Louisville Male; Henry Clay, excellent.
Division two—Superior, Louisville Shawnee and Richmond Model.
Division three—Superior, Ormsby Village; excellent, Frankfort.
Division four—Good, Louisville Girls'.

Division five—Superior, Parkland, Lexington Junior, and Morton Junior; excellent, Louisville Western.

Kenneth Thurston, Henry Clay High school, received a superior rating in the instrumental baritone contest Friday night. Morris Chester, Mayfield; William Grant, Mayfield; and Russell Iliff, Fort Thomas, were rated as excellent. Billy Congleton, Versailles, the youngest pianist in the contest, was ranked as excellent in the boys' piano contest, as was Douglas Atherton, Louisville Male. New Castle and Gilbert, Elizabethtown, were rated as superior and Cornelius Llanby, Georgetown, as excellent.

Dorothy Gould of Atherton Girls' High, Louisville, and Susan Sweeney, Henry Clay High school, were rated as superior in the general piano class, while those rating excellent were Marie Barnes, Bardonia; Dorothy Baxter, Richmond Model High; Emma Kruse, Louisville Girls' High, and Beverly Mayhall, Harlan.

In the snare drum contest, Arthur Garrison, Fort Thomas, and James Scottow, Frankfort, were rated in the superior class, with Bill Burns, Ashland, and John May, Fort Thomas, receiving excellent awards. Only the clarinet section that went to Edward Martin from Louisville Male High.

There were no superior ratings in the E flat bass class, but O. Baye, Augusta; Edward Elcher, Fort Thomas, and Chester Laird, Mayfield, were rated as excellent. In the B flat bass class Lloyd, New-

Many Persons
Attend Garden
Field Program

Program Includes Lectures, Discussions, Question Forum

The annual garden field day program, which was held on the University of Kentucky campus April 26, attracted many persons from Central Kentucky interested in gardening and flower culture.

The feature of the meeting was the inspection of the University botanical gardens. Mrs. Louis Hillenmeyer and Miss Mary Didiak presided at all sessions.

Included in the program were talks by W. D. Valleau on "How to Escape the 'Damping Off' Disease"; Dr. Frank T. McFarland on "Why Not Grow Polyanthus Roses"; Clifford Runyon, superintendent of Spring Grove cemetery, Cincinnati, on "Ups and Downs of the Lawn Problem"; Paul C. Martin, on "Garden Adventures and Misadventures."

Mrs. Ed Clark led a discussion and a question forum. A discussion on "Echoes from the National Flower Show" was led by Mrs. Hillenmeyer. The meeting adjourned at 4 o'clock for the tea given in honor of the visitors by Pres. and Mrs. Frank L. McVey at Maxwell Place.

MORTAR BOARD
PLEDGING IS SET

Senior Women's Honorary to Announce New Members at Annual May Day Convocation

Mortar Board, senior women's honorary, will hold its annual pledging exercises for new members at the May Day convocation. Founded in 1918, Mortar Board has grown into a large national organization with chapters upon almost every prominent college campus.

Election to Mortar Board is the highest honor a junior woman can achieve, as election is based upon high scholastic standing, service to the University, character and leadership in extra-curricular activities.

Victor Portmann
Is Appointed To National Board

Prof. Victor R. Portmann, of the department of Journalism, has accepted appointment on a committee of college journalism instructors and 27 high school teachers of Journalism being set up by the American Association of Teachers of Journalism to aid in the correlation of high school journalism work and college newspaper courses.

Professor W. R. Wunsch, Journalism instructor in Male High school, Louisville, will also serve on the committee.

Last year the association appointed a committee for the purpose of working with the general courses in Journalism which have come into existence. The general courses are those directed toward liberal, cultural and amateur ends, that have come to be called service courses. "Journalism as a social study," reading courses, interpreting the news courses, "consumer" courses, and pre-professional and introductory courses.

Selling of Dance
Tickets Limited

Tuesday and Wednesday will be the only days for sale of student tickets for the Rudy Vallee dance Friday night, May 3, in the Alumni gymnasium. These tickets, which will be sold only on presentation of student athletic ticket books, may be obtained for $1.13 per person in the office of the editor-in-chief of The Kernel in Room 123, McVey hall.

SuKy, pep organization of the University campus, relinquished their contract for the right to hold a dance in the gym on May 3, for which WLAP, who is bringing Rudy Vallee to Lexington, secured the privilege. However, that organization has retained privileges for operation of concessions including the check room and the refreshment stand, and free admission for each member of the society.

Pledging to SuKy will take place during the intermission of the dance.

ESTHER BRIGGS
IS SELECTED AS
1935 MAY QUEEN

Winner Is Member of Delta Delta Delta Sorority, W.S.G.A., Y.W.C.A., and W.A.A.

MISS CLINKSCALES NAMED MAID-HONOR

Holmes, Carrel, Martin and Skinner Chosen As Attendants

ESTHER BRIGGS

Esther Briggs, Paris, junior in the College of Education, was elected 1935 May Queen yesterday by University men in an election conducted by the Men's Student Council on the main floor of the Administration building.

The winning candidate received 327 of the 899 votes cast. Rosemary Clinkscales, Williamstown, received 150 votes, the second highest number, and will be Maid of Honor. The four ranking candidates, who will be attendants to the queen, will be Lillian Holmes, Alpha Gamma Delta; Andrea Skinner, Kappa Delta; Dorothy Martin, Zeta Tau Alpha; and Elsie Carrel, Alpha Xi Delta.

The newly elected queen is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority, the W.S.G.A., Y.W.C.A., W.A.A., and was a beauty queen attending in 1933.

Rosemary Clinkscales is an independent, a member of the Girls Glee club, W.S.G.A., Y.W.C.A., and W.A.A.

Plans for the annual May Day ceremonies to be held Friday have not been definitely completed, but tentative plans include the annual convocation at 10 a. m. in Memorial hall, the parade of fraternity and sorority floats starting at 2 p. m., the crowning ceremony immediately following, and the Suky Gingham dance at 9 p. m., at which Rudy Vallee will appear in person.

All classes will be dismissed after the second hour Friday, in order that students may attend the morning convocation. The Sullivan Medallion, awarded annually to one outstanding man and one outstanding woman in the University, will be presented at that time and Mortar Board, senior honorary for women and Lamp and Cross, honorary senior men's society will hold pledging ceremonies.

More definite plans on the procedure of the parade and crown ceremony will be announced in full in the next issue of the Kernel.

NEW BUSINESS MANAGER NAMED

Dave Difford Appointed to Replace Moore; Hersot Is Chosen as Tentative 1936 Kyian Business Manager

Final contracts and appointments for the 1936 University publications were awarded and made late yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the Board of Publications at McVey hall.

The engraving contract for the 1936 Kentuckian was given to Brush-Kraeb, Louisville engravers.

James Bersot was tentatively selected as business manager of the 1936 Kentuckian, with Louis Isaac, junior in the Agricultural college, being given the alternate business manager post.

The board also accepted the resignation of Ike Moore as Kernel business manager and appointed Dave Difford, junior in the College of Commerce, to succeed Moore for 1936.

TO BUILD TENNIS COURTS

Two tennis courts will be built behind the Training school starting this week. It was announced Saturday by Supt. Maury J. Crutcher of the building and grounds department. It is expected that they will be completed within a week or ten days.

Musicians Will Give Program
In Lexington

Pianist and Mezzo-Soprano Have Appeared on U.K. Vesper Programs

John Shelby Richardson, pianist, and Mrs. Rosa Urbach, mezzo-soprano, both of whom have appeared on vesper programs at the University during the past year, will present a musical May 8, at the home of Mrs. Lester Bloom in Mentelle park.

Arrangements for the concert are in charge of Mrs. Adolph Abraham, chairman, and Mrs. James Strauss, co-chairman, of a committee appointed by the Ashland Avenue Temple. Other members are Mrs. Leonard Well, Mrs. Hugo Bloomfield, and Mrs. Milton Grafman.

Mr. Richardson, a former University student, is a graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston and has studied under some of the most famous piano teachers in America. Mrs. Urbach has given many recitals in Central Kentucky towns and is a pupil of Madam Cara Sapin of Louisville. She will be accompanied by Miss Mildred Lewis, of the University music department.

U. OF K. THINLIES
DEFEAT HANOVER

Team Handicapped by Mud-dy Condition of Field; Willis Is High Point Man

BEREA MEET IS SLATED

Fresh from their 77 to 54 victory over Hanover College Saturday, Coach Bernie Shively's varsity track team will face Berea College at 3 p. m. this afternoon on Stoll field. The freshman track team, which has been practicing for the past several weeks, will engage the Berea Frosh team at the same time. Against Hanover Saturday the 'Cats were handicapped by the muddy conditions of the field which accounted for the poor times in most of the running events. Ben Willis, sophomore dash star, was once more high point man for Kentucky with 15 points, scored in winning the 220 yard dash, and the high and low hurdles.

Walker and Willis were disqualified in the 100 yard dash when they had too many false starts. Nevers again took first in the discus throw and "Bud" Hocker came through with a double victory in the mile and two mile runs. Billy Ford won handily in his favorite distance, the half mile event.

The Berea teams have always given the Wildcats plenty of trouble and it is expected that they will extend Coach Shively's teams to the limit this afternoon. The varsity and freshman events will be run simultaneously so that all the events will be concluded in regulation time.

PHI BETA KAPPA
DINNER PLANNED

Dr. Max S. Handman of the University of Michigan Faculty Engaged as Principal Speaker

Dr. Max S. Handman, professor of economics at the University of Michigan, will be the main speaker at the annual Phi Beta Kappa dinner to be held Thursday, May 2, at the Lafayette hotel. His subject will be "From Ingenuity to Science."

Doctor Handman was formerly special investigator on the national committee for Law Observance and Enforcement (Wickersham) and a member of the National Immigration research council and of numerous social science associations. From 1917 to 1921 he was professor of sociology and economics at the University of Texas and since 1931 has been in his present capacity at the University of Michigan. Doctor Handman is well known as an entertaining and instructive speaker.

Vincent Kelly paid his registration at the University of Nebraska with 3,800 pennies. They weighed 23 pounds.—Miami Student.

MAY DAY

Friday, May 3, is to be celebrated as May Day at the University of Kentucky. Classes will be held on that day the first two hours. Students will be free beginning with the third hour. The convocation will begin at 10:30 in Memorial Hall.

Y.W.C.A. CABINET
GOES ON ANNUAL
WEEK-END TRIP

Trip Enables New Officers an Opportunity to Discuss Policies and Entertainments

PLANS FOR FROSH WEEK FORMULATED

Sunrise Worship Services to Be Held by the Retiring Officials

The newly-elected senior cabinet of the Y. W. C. A. will make its annual week-end trip to Camp Daniel Boone May 4, where the members will organize next year's program and outline the various group schedules and activities.

On Saturday, plans for Freshman Week, occurring next September, will be formulated in joint meetings of the two cabinets. This includes College Night, the Freshman Party, and the Freshman dedication services. Discussions concerning the student forums, guest speakers, and the "Necessity of a Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. in College Affairs" will also be participated in.

A sunrise worship service at 6:30 a. m. will open Sunday. This will be led by the retiring presidents, Sarah Whittinghill and William Bryan. At 11 a. m. a Sunday morning service will be conducted by the new presidents, Martha Pugett and Donald Reister. The camp this year is under the supervision of Mrs. E. G. Trimble, secretary of the Y. W. C. A., and Mr. Bart Peak, secretary of the Y. M. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. Senior Cabinet is composed of the association officers and the leaders of the Y. W. C. A. groups. There are 12 members, including Martha Pugett, president; Frances Kerr, vice-president; Betty Moffett, secretary; Charlotte Coffman, treasurer; Nell Nevins, Social Service group leader; Mary Gunn Webb, Worship group leader; Virginia Robinson, Membership-Pinnacle group leader; Theo Nadelstein, Publicity group leader; Marguerite Goodfriend, Finance Projects; Martha Hall, Social group leader, and Mary Frances McClain, World Fellowship group leader.

Kentucky-Xavier
Tennis Match Has Been Postponed

Team to Play University of Tennessee Saturday, May 4

The varsity tennis match, scheduled with Xavier University last Saturday morning, was called off because of rain which prevented the match from being played out of doors and, although the University team planned to play in the gymnasium, the St. Xavier team on hearing the conditions decided not to play the match.

The freshman team under the tutelage of Prof. H. H. Downing has been practicing since the outdoor courts were opened. The freshman schedule is not complete but efforts are being made to schedule a match with Asbury College for Thursday.

Candidates for the team are Arthur Voll, Thomas Springs; Reel Foster, Gordon Winburn; Walter Booth, Charles Carney; Charles White, Maurice Rosenstein, Harold Huber, and Milton Rosenbloom.

The varsity team will meet the University of Tennessee Saturday, May 4.

Several hundred women are expected to attend the convention from Fayette, Clark, Madison, Garrard, Rockcastle, Boyle, Kenton, Campbell, and Breathitt counties. The meetings will consist of addresses, reports, music and entertainment from the members of all counties attending the convention.

Mrs. McVey's subject will be "Widening Horizons," and Mrs. Houck's subject "Canadian Country Life." Other speakers include Mrs. Luther Todd and Mrs. Alton Smith, Madison county; Mrs. T. F. Lynch, Fayette county; Miss Vivian Hardesty and Mrs. R. A. Lipps, (Continued on Page Four)

Invitations Are Expected To Be
Here This Week

Orders May Be Placed with Phil Ardery Wednesday Afternoon

Commencement invitations which were ordered before the spring holidays should be in sometime the latter part of this week, according to the senior ring and invitation committee. When they arrive The Kernel will carry an announcement telling those who have placed orders where they may be procured.

A number of extra invitations of each of the three types selected, which are the paper folded, the cardboard booklet and the leather booklet, will be sent with the original order and seniors may place orders for extra ones if they wish. Those who have not placed an order as yet may see Phil Ardery, chairman of the ring and invitation committee, at the desk of the reserve book room in the library between the hours of two and five on Monday or Wednesday afternoons, or may call him at Ashland 4234 after 6 p. m.

LAWYERS INDUCT
JUDGE DAWSON

Is Federal Judge of Western Kentucky District and President of Alumni Association

FRAT INITIATES THREE

Judge Charles I. Dawson, United States District Judge of the western district of Kentucky, graduate of the University and president of the Alumni association of the University, was admitted to membership in Henry Clay chapter of Phi Alpha Delta, national legal fraternity of the University Law school Friday, April 26, at 3:30 p. m. at the Lafayette hotel. Judge Dawson, since his graduation has been an ardent supporter of the institution.

As principal speaker for the evening, Judge Dawson gave a very scholarly discussion of certain fundamental constitutional rights and pointed out most explicitly the recent danger of their evasion. Judge Dawson declared, in effect, that no time in the history of our nation have the people's rights been so vitally at stake. As lawyers, the greatest duties to ourselves and to our nation is to uphold and to ever guard the constitution, a document to be made for 'We the People' by the decisions recently handed down by Judge Dawson, holding unconstitutional certain phases of the New Deal program, have been rendered with the utmost conscientiousness and logic, holding always in mind the intent and scholarly understanding by the writers of the constitution—the most learned and greatest body of men the world has ever known, intimidated Judge Dawson.

Initiated with Judge Dawson were Joe Green, Shelbyville, and Anderson Wood of Middlesboro.

SULZER WILL MAKE
INSPECTION TRIP

Elmer Sulzer will accompany two representatives of the University of Wisconsin to the Kentucky mountains Friday to inspect the listening centers of the WHAS extension studios.

H. B. McCarty, program director of the University of Wisconsin, and H. A. Engel, promotion manager of station WHA, state owned station at the University of Wisconsin, are planning on installing listening centers throughout the state of Wisconsin.

Joseph Barron, of the art department, will make the trip to take pictures of the listening centers.

To Sell Tickets
For U.K. Golfers

Students and faculty members of the University of Kentucky may obtain special tickets for the Peadome golf course, at the Physical Education department in the Gym annex for the remainder of the week.

The tickets can be used at any time and will be sold for 35 cents or three for $1.00. The ticket office will be open from 9 a. m. to 12 on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, and from 9 a. m. to 12 and 1:30 p. m. to 4:30 p. m. on Friday.

TAU BETA PI ELECTS

At a recent meeting of Tau Beta Pi, engineering honorary fraternity, the following officers were elected for the coming year: Arnold M. Thompson, president; J. Calvin Cramer, vice-president; Charles P. Reeves, corresponding secretary; J. H. Johnson, recording secretary; Robert S. Irvin, treasurer; J. E. Hocker, sergeant-at-arms. These officers will be installed early in May.

LARGE AUDIENCE
SEES GUIGNOL'S
SEASON FINALE

"Counsellor at Law" Brings Seventh Successful Year of Little Theater

L. ROBINSON GIVES FINE PERFORMANCE

Play to Be Given for Rest of Week at Euclid Avenue Playhouse

By ELIZABETH ANN MILLARD
"Counsellor-at-Law," cleverly written comedy by Elmer Rice, opened at the Guignol theatre last night, April 29, under the discriminating direction of Frank Fowler, being witnessed by a capacity audience and bringing the Guignol's seventh season to a brilliant close.

Like the "Saturday Evening Post," "Counsellor-at-Law" is briskly human, conservative in sentiment, and morally up to date. In this play Mr. Rice has taken for his central figure, a prominent Jewish criminal and divorce lawyer who has risen from New York's East Side gutters to the top of the New York bar, married a Gentile society lady whom he takes seriously as an aristocrat and worships as the perfect woman, and who combines a large degree of charlatanism with a great many profoundly human impulses.

Certain sections of the play—like the first scene in the lawyer's office—create an atmosphere so admirably that they could stand by themselves as complete sketches; time and time again one is moved irresistibly to laughter by the exquisite rightness of some remark made by an office boy, a telephone operator, or a dowager from the East Side. However, in some instances, action and motion are sacrificed for detail, which is, of course, to create a background.

The play is serious in its undertone for it is concerned with the personal tragedy of George Simon, the Jewish lawyer, who is compelled by force of circumstance to wander through certain of the not too attractive back alleys of practice, but the effect is primarily the effect of comedy, and the whole is lifted to a high level by the presence of a gallery of caricatures so justly drawn that they become, perhaps, not caricatures at all, but rather portraits which are funny chiefly because they are so exquisitely lifelike.

This play has many very apt acting possibilities, and it profits by the presence in it of Katherine Davis as Bessie, the telephone operator; L. C. Robinson, who has the role of Simon; Ruth Budd, who is Mr. Simon's secretary and a brilliant supporting cast.

Bessie, who is the sparkling diamond of comedy in the play, is convincingly vulgar, as played by Katherine Davis, who has been acclaimed before for her acting in "The Watched Pot," "Royal Family," and "The Dagger."

WEDNESDAY NIGHT DANCES

A situation has arisen with regard to the recently instituted but highly popular Wednesday night dances which threatens their continued success—namely, the matter of the heavy attendance of outsiders. Each week this attendance has become more prevalent so that the number of university students is almost outnumbered by those who are not students.

Such attendance is detrimental to the dances because of the questionable character of some of those who present their "two-bits" for admission. In order to maintain a high standard of dancing to which gentlemen and lady-like qualities are essential, it will become necessary to deny admittance to some of these strangers.

Where to draw the line is of course debatable. However, if an attempt is made to discriminate between outsiders, prejudice towards the University and hard feelings is certain to arise. For this reason it becomes apparent that if the present situation continues to increase in proportion, it will become necessary to limit the dances by some means to only University students. There is also another side to the question. Such a measure might threaten the financial success of these Wednesday night affairs. It is hoped that it will not put them in the "red" but of course there is always that possibility. However, in this connection, it is not believed that such disastrous results would occur, because the dances would be supported sufficiently by the student body. Therefore it is best to leave the mercenary aspect out of the situation and forget the attempt to make the dances a profit-making proposition.

One method which has been suggested as a remedy to the situation is the requiring of the presentation of student ticket books in order to purchase tickets for admittance. Such a method sounds practical and feasible in that it would limit the sale to only students, with the few exceptions of those who might borrow books in order to obtain tickets. The only objection to such a plan would be that many of the students have already lost or thrown away their student books for the year since they had no further use for them in gaining admittance to athletic contests.

The Kernel will welcome suggestions as to how this situation may be remedied or bettered, since it is wholly in accord with and in favor of the popular All-Campus dances and desires to see them continue with the greatest possible chance for success.

MINERVA AND BACCHUS

American education is suffering from an overdose of formalism is the belief of certain prominent national educators. Formalism is defined by them as the emphasis placed on the mechanistic functions of education, such as daily assignments, class attendance, term papers, notebooks, and examinations.

Just how much truth there is in such an assertion is a matter of question. However, the fact remains that too strict conformity to these elements has a tendency to cause an evaluation of worth and ability on the basis of marks only, and an indifference to activity of other than a scholastic nature.

For this reason, college students almost invariably place themselves in two classes: the books worms and the voluptuous loafers. Approximately eighty per cent of the students in our modern institutions of learning either become slaves to the philosophy of the slow, plodding Minerva or children of gaily following in the wake of the fast-stepping Bacchus.

Fortunately, although their number is not great in comparison, some fall into the delightful medium in which they pay enough attention to their scholastic endeavor to receive its full benefit without warping their minds intellectually, and at the same time live in a sphere of influence of things more practical and more pleasurable. Those who have found this path are able to make the most of life and to enjoy living to the fullest extent. Such persons are able not only to develop their intellectual capacity but also to increase themselves in favor with their fellow men, which after all, should be the foremost desire of those who wish to live in harmony with society.

In adjusting students to the benefits of the college curriculum and the value of association with fellow students, one of the best tempering influences is to be found in extra-curricular activities. Here one is able to determine his likes and dislikes because of the wide range of activities, and develop a channel in which to broaden his personality. Thus he will entitle himself to be placed in that category known as the happy medium, in which neither the narrow philosophy of Minerva nor the equally narrow of Bacchus is distinctly pursued.

STUDENTS OF THE DEPRESSION

Fred H. Turner, Dean of Men at the University of Illinois, has scored a direct hit in his recent magazine article entitled, "Student of the Depression," which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post. Dean Turner characterizes the collegians of today as "a great crowd which comes nearer to my idea of what real university students should be than any other group which I have observed in my experience."

Far too many university authorities and others interested in American college life have pointed out the darker side of the university picture, but it remained for Dean Turner to present clearly the brighter side. Dean Turner draws on his experience to show how the less fortunate students have arranged to get along with limited funds.

He lauds the student of today because he has a far wider range of interests than his predecessor had. The continual controversies which are aired in the correspondence columns of college newspapers attest this fact. The depression has also forced college students to take their social enjoyments at a much lower cost than in the past. At Illinois, prom tickets used to cost six dollars compared to the present two-fifty rate, and what is more, students have discovered that they can have just as much fun when they pay less as they did when their entertainment bore a higher price tag.

The fraternities present another interesting example of how the depression has raised the standards at Illinois. Five years ago there were eighty-five Greek letter houses on the campus. The number is now reduced to sixty-two, and significantly enough, those that have survived have strengthened their position instead of weakening it. The follies of extravagance are now realized and most of the former mismanagement is being eliminated. In almost every instance, the wolf and the sheep are supposed to be outside every fraternity door will have a long wait because of the sound retrenchment policies adopted as a result of the depression.—Cornell Daily Sun, C. U.

Hoi Polloi

By BOB HESS

We still contend that this column should be written by a person who's identity is not known—but as Coffman let you know your Tuesday writer's name, we will have to make the best of the circumstances.

This is our first writing since Easter, and so we tip our new Easter bonnet on the back of a thick skull and bang away on Mr. L. C. Smith's machine in order that you might suffer too.

Not just a "Little White Gardenia," but a large bouquet of gardenias, fall into the lap of Tridelt Helen Irvine, because she is one of the best natured coeds on the campus. Incidentally, recently she acquired a new roommate—a little puppy called "Orange Blossom."

You Cut Up

Speaking of animals, Adelaide Eubanks, the Palooka from Paducah, has named the feline that she is dissecting in her Comparative Anatomy class, "Caspar the Cat." She is afraid that eight of the cats lives will make it a point to haunt her for being so cruel.

Roses Again

We are tempted to toss a rose in the direction of Jane Crain, because she proved, by totting 21 roses in a ten foot box all the way to Chicago, that she could easily "hold down" the position of rose girl.

When she arrived in Chicago, the roses smelled worse than the polecat that has his home in the Delt's back yard.

Statistics

We learn from Dr. Funkhouser, that less than half of the Vassar girls ever get married. Kappa Ida Greenleaf, a former Vassarite, has shown a tendency toward being among the marrying group, for last Tuesday she started to elope with a certain eligible youth.

Feminine Influence

It seems that Dick Boyd, one of the Kernel's competent editorialists, gets on an "editorial writing spree" after dating Barbara Smith. His only comment concerning the matter is, "She's intellectual!"

The Last Straw

Nell Duerson seems to have used the expression, "That's the last straw," a little too much to suit Cal Cramer. Cal had a bale of straw sent to Nell's quarters in the Kappa house. Apparently Nell didn't realize that she could have diverted her knitting talents into making straw mats, or sumpin', and save herself the cost of yarn, for she sent the straw right back to Cal.

May Your Troubles Be Little Ones

We receive word that Evelyn Robertson dashed off Easter with a University of Tennessee lad, and said the words, "I do" before a justice. We take this opportunity to wish you the most of success and real happiness.

In Spring a Young Man's Fancy Turns to Love

Earl "Tooty" Willis recently hooked the official Phidelt badge on an Easter dress worn by Thelma Flaherty, a nifty blond from Ashland. The romance looks like the real thing.

Ed Hurd journeyed to Illinois during the Easter vacation in order to pin his newly acquired Sigma Chi badge on a pretty little Peoria lass. Ed has been waiting since high school days to put a fraternity pin on this girl.

A certain little Lexington girl came home from a recent University dance with a Delta Chi pin on her personage. She is quite disturbed, as she does not know who the pin belongs to. For complete information call Ashland 424. This spring weather certainly does effect these college students in a queer manner.

If you won't tell anyone we told you, we will let you in on a secret. It concerns Lee Miles, Katherine Combs, and a boy from Hazard. We weaken at this point, and decide that we had better not let the details out. We will say that the secret concerns a romance, a broken romance. That eternal triangle again.

Beta Beta Beta

We have complete information concerning the great secret organization on the campus called Tri-Beta. It takes in as members both men and women students. The feminine element of the organization has recently been reduced since a few of the Kappa members have been asked, by their sorority, to resign. Remember, Tri-Betas, that we have the goods on you.

Kelly Again

Kelly, the cop, says, "This moonlight is certainly saving the batteries in my new flashlight. Shucks, I haven't had an opportunity to use the thing yet." Why don't you try spying on a few of the master courters that have courting practice in the Guignol Gardens.

LITERARY

Conducted by DOROTHY WHALEN

Thoreau's Life

I do not wish to live
What was not truest life,
For living is so dear;
Nor did I wish to give
Myself, resigned to strife,
Least need be there.
But ever seek, and find and go
To higher planes—to life's marrow.

My heart and his heart,
The pagan miles away,
Are chilled yet or filled yet
By thoughts of dawning day.

He crows while I bow
Before the deity.
He shrieks while I seek
Dawns of eternity.

Twilight

To the misty pale of dreams,
Hopes and plans of years,
As the summer rays and beams
Of pearly dusk appear:

Softly, quickly, inspiring so,
As the shades weave on,
My fears and sorrows go
With your coming—Dawn.
—THORNELL W. TWYMAN.

The Book of Life

I open wide the Book of Life.
From morn to night the pages turn;
And in the lines scrawled plainly
there

I see a face that begs a smile,
A face that sends a smile to me,
A face that tells me all its needs,
A face that shows me wondrous gifts.

I watch to see the smile I give,
My change of face as I receive—
Do I help him secure his needs,
Do I receive his proffered gifts?

We do not write our Book of Life
With hard-spelled words of gifted style.

A Pharisee may choose his word
And smoothe his book with balanced line;
But you and I must write our way:
We must be friend to fellow man;
And that is only half, my friend,
For as we walk this road of life,
Let fellow man be friend to us.
The Book will be a harmony
And each of us will write his part.
—E. K. T.

April Showers

Sparkling, glistening April diamonds,
From an April sky—
Come to tell of joys forthcoming,
"Summer-time is nigh."

Come to tell heart-saddened people,
Tired of Winter's storm,
There are days of joy and gladness
When the diamonds form.

Brilliant, dancing April diamonds
From an April sky—
Come to tell heart-weary people
"God is ever nigh."

The Sandman

When the evening sun is sinking,
And the birds all homeward fly,
When the bells are softly chiming,
And night is drawing nigh—

When little children are in bed—
Over the hills will creep,
Softly, so softly, tip-toeing on,
The sandman carrying sleep.

He enters the lowly cottage,
The rich man's and the poor man's house,
He steals into the mansions,
Even as still as a mouse.

But when the sun is rising
And slowly comes the day—
Try as you will to find him,
The magical sandman is gone.
—KATHRYN ROBINSON.

The dances will be continued until the termination of the school in May.

STUDENT OPINION

Dear Editor,

There comes a time in every student's life when he has to decide what profession he wants to enter. This may be easy for some people to do, but it cost me some long, hard hours of reasoning to decide just what was the best profession to choose. Being a peace-loving man I had to reason from this angle: "What profession can I practice and keep the good will of everyone?" Here is the secret:

I don't want to study Home Economics, that's a woman's job (I'm a man). I could be a "Bug-ologist", but if I were caught dissecting a bug the other bugs would probably get mad at me. Law is out, not because all lawyers are said to be crooks, but because the first man I took a case against would feel ill toward me. Teaching is undesirable because I might acquire the enmity of some student who failed my courses. I have to pass up the ministry because some narrow-minded gang of one denomination may not like me because I joined another. This grows monotonous. I travel down the list of professions, but all of them have antagonizing qualities. Finally I come to Medicine—there I am. I'll be a doctor—for if a person is sick and I cure him, he can have but good feelings for me; and if he dies—he can certainly not feel angry at me.

I bid you good-day, Editor. Respectfully,

R. H. L.

Nadelstein Heads Home Ec Society

Phi Upsilon Omicron Names Officers at Last Meeting

Miss Isabella Nadelstein, a Junior in the Home Economics department of the College of Agriculture, has been elected president of Phi Upsilon Omicron, national honorary and professional home economics fraternity, by senior members of the University chapter.

Other officers elected were Mary Elizabeth Collins, vice-president; Mary Lewis Shearer, secretary; Courtney Cannon, treasurer; Anna Evans, chaplain; Louise Payne, editor; and librarian-historian, Virginia Winslow.

Miss Nadelstein is a member of the Home Economics Club, the Y. W. C. A., the sub-committee of Pan Hellenic, the Agricultural Society, the Cosmopolitan Club, and served as a Junior Prom Court attendant this year.

The new officers were installed at 5 p. m. Thursday at the Agricultural building, and were guests of Dr. Statie Erickson, head of the department, at dinner.

Retiring officers of the chapter are Faye Allen, president; Anna Evans, vice-president; Polly Keshelmer, secretary; Mildred Holmes Broadbent, treasurer; Catherine Culton, chaplain; Mary Carolyn Terrell, editor; and Mary E. Collins, historian.

U of K Dean Gives Radio Interview

Professor Terrell Talks of Advantages of Engineering College

Prof. Daniel V. Terrell, acting dean of the College of Engineering, was interviewed last Thursday over radio station WHAS by Dr. Henri Beaumont, executive secretary of the personnel bureau, in regard to advantages offered by the College of Engineering.

"In order for one to be successful in an engineering career, one must be educated in fundamental laws of the physical sciences," Professor Terrell declared.

There are 52 men in the senior class of the college, and according to Professor Terrell, prospects of placing members upon graduation are very encouraging. Less than one per cent of the College of Engineering graduates, which number 1500, are known to be out of employment.

Looking into the future, the speaker said, "The highest dam, the largest single span bridge, the highest building, the largest machines, the fastest car or plane, and many other things are either under construction or have just been completed. As soon as these projects are finished, new and larger ones will receive the attention of the engineers."

U. of K. Professor Addresses P. T. A. Congress Meeting

Speaks on "Writing and Getting Publicity for P. T. A."

Prof. Niel Plummer, of the department of Journalism, was the principal speaker at the publicity chairman's breakfast of the Kentucky Congress of Parents and Teachers held during the three-day convention of the congress in Owensboro, April 17-20. Mr. Plummer's subject was "Writing and Getting Publicity for the P. T. A." "If you give your editor an advance story and he uses it, do not overlook the fact that he probably would appreciate a follow-up story—a report of the event itself," Mr. Plummer said. The importance of making contacts with the newspaper organization was stressed, and the publicity chairman were urged to uncover items of broader interest in their meetings.

"If you do this you will be materially aiding as generous and progressive a group of editors as will be found in anybody's state. The editors and newspapermen are behind P. T. A. Hold them," Mr. Plummer concluded.

Lawrence W. Hager, editor of the Messenger and Inquirer, and Owensboro postmaster, also spoke at the meeting, bringing helpful advice and suggestions as to the value of news to the P. T. A. unit.

KIRKPATRICK IS GUEST SPEAKER

University of Wisconsin Instructor Gives Address Before Ag College Assembly

DEAN COOPER PRESIDES

Prof. E. L. Kirkpatrick of the University of Wisconsin was the guest speaker at the assembly of the College of Agriculture, Wednesday morning. He discussed "Planning With Rural Young People."

Dean Thomas P. Cooper presided. The speaker talked of the present status of rural life, what is being done for and with young people, and further possible developments. He said that the great numbers of rural young people want wholesome recreation and means of using the leisure time that the machine age has made possible for them.

Music, amateur theatres, forums, community halls were listed as the chief desires. The Country Life Association does not add to the 200 organizations in existence, but strengthens and makes definite their program. Young people able to lead often find ways to help those who can not attend college, he added.

Professor Kirkpatrick, who is also field representative for the American Country Life Association, led a discussion group Wednesday afternoon and spoke Wednesday night on "What Kind of Life Rural Leaders Want." James Rosenberg, president of the Agriculture Society, announced that a meeting of the organization will be held tonight, with visitors from Berea college and the University of Oregon in charge.

CLYDE'S BOOK TRANSLATED

A Japanese translation of Dr. Paul H. Clyde's book, "International Rivalries in Manchuria 1899-1922," was published last month in Tokyo. The book was first published by the Ohio State University press in 1928, and has passed through three printings, totaling a figure of 2000 copies. The Japanese translation was the work of Dr. T. Uyeda, professor of history at Tung Wen college in Shanghai.

Dairy Founder To Be Feted by Club

Banquet to Be Held May 2 at Wellington Arms; R. T. Hanna to Preside

The dairy club of the College of Agriculture will honor C. Oscar Ewing, founder of the Ewing Dairy in Louisville at its annual banquet Thursday, May 2, at the Wellington Arms.

Each year the club honors an outstanding man in the dairy industry, and hangs his portrait in the dairy building on the Experiment Station farm. John Nutter, for many years in charge of the experiment station herd, was honored last year.

R. T. Hanna, president of the club, will preside at the banquet, and Beach Craigmyle will dedicate the portrait. Directors of the Kentucky Dairy Products association and others prominent in the industry will be present.

PALM BEACH SLACKS

You can get wash trousers for almost any price you want to pay. We admit frankly that Palm Beach slacks cost more than same.

They cost $5. But remember that in these outdoor days your slacks are an important part of your wardrobe.

Palm Beach slacks hold their shape and drape so much better than most summer trousers. They keep their smart lines. Their weave is open to admit the air. And their fuzzless fibres resist dirt. They are being shown in white and in fashion's newest colors. All wash splendidly... And we repeat, $5 for two legs. At your favorite clothier's.

Seen From The PRESS BOX

By JOE QUINN

Last Saturday afternoon, Coach Chet Wynne put his Wildcat football hopefuls on exhibition for the general public. A crowd of more than 500 spectators took advantage of the fine afternoon to look on as the two picked squads, the Blues and the Grays, pushed each other over the gridiron for the regulation sixty minutes.

The weather was ideal for the grid game from the spectator standpoint. After a heavy downpour shortly after noon the sun came out strongly and dried everything up in short order. The rain had softened up the field a bit as the teams lined up.

On the Blue team, Coach Wynne placed most of his experienced material, led by the hard-hitting Bert Johnson. The opposition was composed mainly of graduates of last year's frosh combine, featuring "Bullet" Bob Davis, and "Red" Simpson.

Neither team held any decided advantage and it was not until midway in the third quarter that the Blues registered the only score of the game when Bert Johnson broke away for 15 yards and made a touchdown. Johnson failed to kick the extra point.

Both clubs were on the alert, defensively, and few long gains were made by either team. Frequent substitutions kept the teams fairly fresh and penalties also helped to reduce the yardage gains.

It was the first time that many of the spectators had an opportunity to watch the Wildcats work their new lateral pass plays and the majority got a big kick out of it. Any of you who have not as yet taken a look at the team since the spring drills have started may do so tomorrow afternoon when the two teams will stage another practice game.

When starter William Hamilton springs the barrier at Churchill Downs for the start of the 1935 renewal of the Kentucky Derby on Saturday, a goodly number of University students will be on hand for the big attraction. Although many of the crowd, which annually jams into Louisville for the classic, are there for the sole purpose of seeing fine horseflesh as displayed in "the sport of kings," the majority will also be anxious to see their choice "finish in the money."

In the words of Will Rogers, all we know about horses "is what we read in the papers." So after perusing the Sunday horse news, it became evident that some of the winter favorites are rapidly falling from grace with the "wise money" boys. Chance Sun, the favorite at 4 to 1 in the winter book, is now quoted at 20 to 1, so if you've saved your money until now, you can get a considerably longer price (although we'd advise you to keep on saving it).

RELIGIOUS GROUP OFFERS COURSE

To Instruct Rural Pastors To Be Able to Cope More Fully with Their Complex Problems

M'VEY WILL OPEN MEET

Dr. Frank L. McVey, president of the University, and the Rt. Rev. H. P. Almon Abbott, bishop of Lexington diocese of the Episcopal church formally opened the six-day pastors' short course Monday evening at Memorial hall. President McVey will give an address of welcome and Bishop Abbott will give the response and speak on "Possessing Our Possessions". The course is sponsored by the College of Agriculture and the Kentucky Rural Church Council and is directed by Dr. W. D. Nichols, head of the department of farm economics of the University.

Preliminary speeches on "Rural Church Efficiency—Outlining the Problem" and "Religious Education in the Rural Church—an Outline" will be given by Prof. E. C. Cameron, Indianapolis, Ind., professor in charge of courses in the rural church, Butler University, and Dr. Henry W. McLaughlin, Richmond, Va., of the department of religious education, Presbyterian church in the United States, respectively.

Other speakers include President McVey, Bishop Abbott, Rev. Angus N. Gordon, Shelbyville, Dr. R. V. Bennett, Winchester, Dr. Charles J. Turk, Danville, and Dr. T. W. Rainey.

Some of the lecturers will be Dean Thomas Cooper, Prof. George Roberts, Prof. N. R. Elliot, and Dr. Carsie Hammond.

The purpose of the course is to give instruction and training which will enable rural pastors to meet more fully the complex needs of their communities, spiritually, economically and in a cultural way. First hand knowledge concerning some phases of scientific agriculture may be gained and contacts made which will make possible fuller use of agricultural service agencies. Several periods have been arranged for instruction and demonstrations in recreational projects which will provide the basis for local church programs.

In the E flat clarinet class only excellent ratings were given, those going to Robert Himler, Bellevue, and Margaret Hediger, Shawnee High. Only two ratings were given in the xylophone class, with Arthur Garrison, Fort Thomas, and John May, also of Fort Thomas, both rated as superior.

Grondel Foster, Ashland, and Howard Hanks, Henry Clay, were rated as superior in the B flat clarinet class, with excellent awards going to Billy Crutcher, Frankfort; Sallie Dowell, Berea Academy; Robert Elbert, Bellevue; Tom Haines, Male High; Paul Rowland, Mayfield, and Edward Witnauer, Louisville Manual. Two Louisville Male High students were given superior ratings in the oboe class, those being William Miller and Jack Tepe.

The only superior rating in the tenor saxophone class went to Charles Hubbard, Maysville, but excellent awards went to Paul Baker, Ashland; Mary Holden, Ormsby Village, and George Weber of Louisville Male. Edward Seigel of Danville, with a superior rating, was the only contestant rated in the baritone class for saxophones.

Stanford Harris, Mount Washington, and Billy Fuchs, Owensboro, drew superior ratings in the trombone event, while those classes as excellent were Morris Carter, Mayfield; Glenn Dewald, Bellevue; John Fetterman, Danville; Charles Garland, Benham, and Carlton Moore, Henry Clay High.

Kenneth Armor, Highlands; Wilbur Steen, Jr., Augusta, and Charlene Young, Paris, were rated superior in the saxophone contest. Those rated as excellent were Paul Baker, Ashland; James Dutil, Louisville Male; H. Evan McKinley, Shepherdsville; Hayden Iglehart, Shelbyville; Joe Weatherill, Carrollton; Henry Yates, Louisville Male, and Raymond Hallie, Central City.

In the wood-wind class, Highland High, of Fort Thomas, was rated as superior and Ashland as excellent. Ashland and Henry Clay were rated superior in the brass quartette class. Louisville Manual, Highlands, Louisville Male and Winchester were rated as excellent. In the stringed instrument event, Emmett Gipe, Owensboro, was rated superior in the viola contest. Excellent awards were given to Harriet Hendershot, Louisville, Atherton Girls' High.

In the cello contest, Ruth Walker, Richmond, Model, was judged superior, and Elmer Ringo, Louisville Male, excellent. Martha Jesse, Louisville Shawnee, was rated superior in the string bass class. Excellent rating was given Parker Labach, Lexington Henry Clay, and Margaret Culton, Richmond Model. The string quartet event resulted in a superior award to Lexington Henry Clay and the Louisville Girls' Halleck Hall.

Engraved certificates were given to the candidates who were judged to be in the better groups.

U. K. TRACKSTERS WILL MEET BERE A

The University varsity and freshman track teams will meet the Berea college varsity and freshman teams in a scheduled meet on Stoll field this afternoon. The freshman team was chosen by Coach Bernie Shively in the trials held Friday, April 25, on Stoll field.

Representing the Kittens in the 100 yard dash will be Rigby, Pardo, and Forden. The 220 yard dash will also be run by Rigby and Pardo, in company with Robinson, freshman football player.

The Kittens, though crippled in the distance events by the ineligibility of Rogan, state interscholastic mile-run record holder, will be well represented in those events. The quarter-mile will be run by Heliard, Veal, and Gorman. Half-milers competing for the Kittens will be Steckmet and Scott. Matching strides with the Berea men in the mile will be Moore and Price, with Moore also competing in the two-mile.

The timber-toppers running for the Kittens will be Morat and Forden in the 220-yard low hurdles, and Gorman in the 120-yard high hurdles.

In the field events the Kitten team has Raynor and Lutz, high-jumpers; Kolyer, pole-vaulter, and Leonard, Chepeleff, Raynor, and Lutz in the broad-jump. The discus and the shot will be heaved by Jones and Simpson, both freshman football players, while Simpson, Combs, and Hinebein will hurl the javelin.

Homemakers to Meet At U. of K.

TWO COURSES ADDED TO SUMMER SESSION

Two courses especially designed for attendance officers will be offered during the 1935 University summer sessions, according to a recent announcement from the Summer Session News.

The Administration of Pupil Personnel, Education 198, will be offered the first two and one-half weeks by Moss Walton, of the State department of Education at Frankfort.

Miss Reva Harris, State Department of Health, Louisville, will teach the other course which will be called Hygiene 150a2, Problems in Health Education, and will be offered for two and one-half weeks.

Guignol Players End Seventh Year

"What the Gulls Knew", "Journey's End", "Macbeth" and others, portrays the grimly exultant, yet rather futile figure of George Simon with perfect technique and understanding. He showed qualities of tenderness and sympathy that were fine, and his fine differences of expression are outstandingly brilliant.

Miss Budd makes her initial bow from the Guignol boards in the current play, and readily proves herself a capable actress by her apt presentation of the role of the bustling and efficient Miss Gordon. Doris Catching, as Cora Simon, wife of George Simon, shows that careful study and preparation have been put forth to make Mrs. Simon a restless, dissatisfied society woman.

Lena Simon, the lawyer's mother, is a realistic presentation by Frances Reid, who has done good work in other plays at the Guignol.

Thelma Goodrich as Sarah Becker gives an excellent character sketch, and Roy Hogg, as her son Harry, makes a grand gesture in his final speech.

Raymond St. John as Charles Mafco gives a pleasingly realistic performance, and presents another fine character sketch. His movements and timing show fine concentration.

Simon's brother, David, is the role played by Milton Rosenbloom, and present a superb characterization.

Each member of the cast brings his or her part to the front, making a group of finely drawn pictures, each an extremely different type, and each deserving acclamation.

Goldie Rindskopf, secretary to Tedesco, is played extremely well by Helen Rich, while Clara Hughes as Zedora Chapman, the acquitted murderess, is also good. Tedesco is played by Harrison Geller, a newcomer to the Guignol. Walden Greenwell has the role of Weinberg, the moonstruck law student, and Jimmie Richardson gives a nice, though short, performance as the bootblack. Francis Clark Baird is portrayed by Tom Scott, whose voice is perfectly right for the part. Mrs. Simon's children, Richard, Jr. and Dorothy, are played by Tom Nichols and Betty Moffett.

Audrey de Wilde gives a fine conception of the chorus girl, Lillian Larue, and Roy Darwin, the millionaire playboy, is quite realistic as enacted by Harry Franks. The role of Peter Malone, as played by LeRoy Miles, is very convincing, and the earnestness of Johann Breitstein, as portrayed by James D. Stephens is not to be doubted. The roles of Arthur Sander and Henry Buddkind are well presented by Bill

Huston and Allan Beninger.

The setting for the play is found in the inner and outer offices of the law firm of Simon & Tedesco. The scenery is shifted by a tricky device which slides the side wall up and down, making a separate set as it is shifted. The costumes and stage properties are very appropriate, and Malcolm Shotwell, Mildred Schaffner, and Sara Oundiff, together with their assistants, should be congratulated on the success of each department, as well as the success of the whole.

Though this play is remarkable in no particular, the plot not being necessarily clever, romantic, or odd, it holds one's interest because its characters are familiar, its story probable, and the situations rest upon solid foundations of realism, making it a play that appeals to the interest of all.

There is no need for a lot of whangdoodle talk about cigarettes — just plain common-sense

When you stop to think about your cigarette—what it means to you—here's about the way you look at it—

Smoking a cigarette gives a lot of pleasure—it always has.

People have been smoking and enjoying tobacco in some form or another for over 400 years.

Of course you want a cigarette to be made right. And naturally you want it to be mild. Yet you want it to have the right taste—and plenty of it.

In other words—you want it to Satisfy.

Scientific methods and ripe mild tobaccos make Chesterfield a milder and better-tasting cigarette. We believe you will enjoy them.
